Harbinger Interactive Learning Shortlisted as one of the Finalists for 2018 CUBIC Awards

Harbinger shortlisted under 'Learning Technology of the Year' category as a finalist

Harbinger Interactive Learning has been chosen as a finalist in 2018 CUBIC awards under the 'Learning Technology of the Year' category. The Corporate University Best-in-Class, or CUBIC™ Awards, aim to honor, recognize, and promote internal training organizations and corporate universities that set standards of excellence in a variety of categories relating to performance and results. This year's winners will be announced at the awards luncheon on Friday, November 30, 2018.

The Learning Technology of the Year Award recognizes technology solutions that offer broad range of communication and information that can be used to support learning, teaching, and assessment. In addition, these solutions demonstrate excellence in the field of learning innovation and promote intelligent use of learning technology on a global scale.

Harbinger Interactive Learning - a global technology design and development company; specializes in the areas of eLearning modernization and custom eLearning solution development. Over the last few years, Harbinger has worked extensively on designing and delivering innovative learning technology solutions for its clients. One such solution has been the automation framework which was developed by our team to facilitate large volume legacy content modernization for one of our clients and moved on to be a preferred choice for most of our modernization projects thereon. The same solution is competing in the CUBIC awards technology category.

Poonam Jaypuriya, VP- eLearning, Harbinger Group, mentions, "I am delighted hearing this news. Being shortlisted as one of the finalists in CUBIC awards for our in-house technology solution is indeed a big feat. Our efforts are being recognized by one of the best forums in the industry and it is a big motivator. It is also a testament to our culture of innovation and hard work. We are looking forward to the award ceremony."
