Vikas Joshi, Chairman and CMD – Harbinger Group, is ecstatic with this victory. He said, “We are delighted to continue our award-winning streak for the second year in a row. We won our first Brandon Hall Excellence Award in 2017 and now have made it to this year’s leaderboard too. Being a Brandon Hall award winner is a testament to our continuous hard work and innovation. I would want to thank our amazing workforce who worked hard to build this solution and our wonderful customers who trusted us with their mission-critical projects.”

Harbinger’s award entry was based on the automated content authoring framework that was developed to address eLearning content modernization needs.

“We’re proud to honor the innovators. As human capital management continues to evolve, the creativity of the award winners is breathtaking. Organizations of all size showed that creativity and technology can create new and better work experiences for businesses and their employees,” said Rachel Cooke, Chief Operating Officer of Brandon Hall Group and head of the awards program.

“We were blown away,” said Mike Cooke, Chief Executive Officer of Brandon Hall Group. “Our research was confirmed by the entrants’ responsiveness to the needs of employers who seek to align technology to the goals of their businesses. Every Technology Award entry embodied a win-win proposition for employers and employees.”

A panel of veteran, independent senior industry experts, and Brandon Hall Group senior analysts and executives evaluated the entries based upon the product’s breakthrough innovation, its unique differentiators, value proposition, and measurable benefits for client organizations. Harbinger’s modernization framework fared well on all the above criteria to make it to the winners list. To know more about this framework, visit
